3.1 LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Know the techniques and devices used in human-computer interaction, their standards, guides, styles and regulations, in order to ensure efficient use of systems and services they support.

- Design, implement and evaluate human-computer interfaces that ensure accessibility and usability of computer systems, services and applications

Faculty of Sciences

4. OBJECTIVES

Present the basic principles of user-centred software development process.

Present the main paradigms and interaction styles.

Present the main design guidelines to ensure usability of software applications

Design interactive systems that integrate user support mechanisms.

Design user interfaces adapted to different cultures, regions, or languages.

6. COURSE ORGANIZATION
CONTENTS
1	INTRODUCTION
2	HUMAN FACTOR
3	INTERACTION PARADIGMS
4	INTERACTION STYLES
5	DESIGNING INTERACTIVE SYSTEMS
6	EVALUATION OF USABILITY

7. ASSESSMENT METHODS AND CRITERIA
Description	Туре		Reassessn	%
Exam	Written exam	Yes	Yes	30,00
Laboratory	Laboratory evaluation	No	Yes	40,00
Exercises	Activity evaluation with Virtual Media	No	Yes	30,00
TOTAL 100,00
Observations
Students will have to pass both the written exam and the laboratory evaluation. The grade of the students who pass only one or two of these assessments (written exam, exam, laboratory) will be calculated as the minimum of 4.9 and the average grade obtained.
Observations for part-time students
The part-time students who can not follow the continuous evaluation must pass a laboratory test (40%) and a written theory test (60%)
